STREET PAVING JOB IS POSSIBLE

Parnell Honor Guest At Rotary Lnncheon

E. D. PARNELL

Cameron Rotarians Wednesday at their regular noon luncheon arranged a special tribute to E. D. Parnell, teacher of vocational agriculture in the Yoe High School, and entertained a number of guests.

M. G. Cox, Cameron attorney, was toastmaster by appointment of Dr. Clifford Swift, president of the club. Mr. Cox in a short speech praising Mr. Parnell, said that it was fitting for the Rotary Club to recognize the contribution Mr. Parnell had made to the progress of better agriculture in Milam County and in Texas.

By special arrangement John Jeter who is second vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce presented Mr. Parnell with a sweater, one of four contributed by civic organizations in Cameron to the teacher and members of his champion poultry judging team.

Mr. Cox introduced Mr. Jeter who made an interesting talk in which he praised the work of Mr. Parnell who has successfully coached five championship teams in Texas and represented the state with a Yoe High team at the Royal Livestock show in Kansas City in 1936. Mr. Jeter presented the sweater on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and was applauded for his tribute to Mr Parnell.

Mr. Parnell in accepting the sweater brought the program for the day in a speech outlining the policy and the work of the state farm association members. On the left sleeve of the sweater was the emblem of Texas Champions while on the left breast of the sweater is the shield or emblem of the FFA of the United States of America. The symbols on this shield were explained by Mr. Parnell. The outline is a cross section of an ear of corn and resembles the Rotary emblem. Mr. Parnell went into detail to explain how the poultry judging team, composed of Dana Monroe, James Brock

Charges Are Filed Against W. D. Paden Following Fight

Secretary Paden of the Chamber of Commerce was placed under bond in the sum of $300 here Monday following an altercation in which Hugo Slaughter, local cotton buyer, was painfully cut across the left shoulder and left side.

A dispute over a key to a lock in a building formerly occupied by Mr. Slaughter, it was said, led to the fight which occurred in the entrance of the New Cameron Drug Company. Friends separated the men and Mr. Slaughter was taken to the office of Dr. W. R. Newton for treatment. His condition is reported satisfactory.

Immediately after the altercation, Mr. Paden reported to city marshal, Gene Smith and was taken before the city attorney. Later deputy sheriff, Dan Gunn arrested Mr. Paden at his home and a bond in the sum mentioned above was fixed by Justice Womack Brashear.

W. Lee O'Daniel

His Life Story

Reproduced from The Dallas News

I was born on March 11, 1890, in Malta, Morgan County, Ohio, a small town on the Muskingum River, about thirty miles north west of Marietta.

Across the river is the county seat, which is the larger town of McConnelsville. Both have long been factory towns served by steamboats from the Ohio River. There were tobacco factories: plow works and other shops, and the people of Malta were largely workers.

My father's name was William O'Daniel, the son of a Morgan county farmer who was also called William O'Daniel. I have never tried to trace the family tree. I only know it is a good old Irish name, which is good enough for me. What county in Ireland my folks came from is another matter. But I was always told that my father's grandfather was the first of our line in America. He left a poor but beautiful country to cast his lot in this land of greater opportunity. He was just one of thousands in that almost forgotten generation of Irish laborers who, with their sweat and brawn, helped to build the railroads, man the iron foundries, or break new land on the frontiers as their part in the making of this country.

O'Daniel a Baby When Father Killed.

What my own father looked like, or how his voice sounded, I can't say of my own knowledge. There is a fine old Texan living at Harlingen, A. C. Moody, who wrote me just after my nomination. He was raised in Morgan County, four miles west of Malta, and remembers my father "from 1873 until as long as he stayed in Malta." There are other folks and relatives back in Ohio who recall William O'Daniel. One of these is Charles (Chick) Bell, fellow worker in the foundry of the Brown-Manly Power Company.

I lost my father when I was hardly more than a babe in arms. All his life William O'Daniel was just a hard working man. That was all he ever knew or did. He worked hard as a boy on the farm. When he moved to town he got a job in the plow foundry—pouring hot, molten metal, making the plow beams, doing whatever

WILL SPEAK HERE FOR PIERCE BROOKS

Fay Hammond of Dallas, Publicity Manager of Independent Grocers Association, will speak here Wednesday, August 24, in behalf of the candidacy of Pierce Brooks for Lieutenant Governor. Hammond is substituting for a few days for Mr. Brooks.

He will discuss the Brooks platform in detail and show that he is the only candidate for that high office who has offered any solution for the vexing problems confronting Texas.

This platform includes payment in full of old age pensions to those entitled to them under the constitution. He shows this can be done without additional taxes. He would save $6,000,000 yearly in the operation of the State government, without impairing its efficiency; he would abolish the Liquor Board, vest control in local officers and save a million; he would abolish the Old Age Assistance Commission, vest the authority in County Judges, and save another million.

In addition, Brooks advocates abolishing the auto license law, charging a nominal registration fee and retaining the driver's license. He points out the Highway Commission is well ahead with its program, has a large cash reserve, and this would not hamper its program.

Mr. Brooks also is opposed to tampering with the constitution and the creation of a unicameral legislature, which he charges would be in danger of falling under the control of special interests.

N CARMICHAEL DIES AT BEN ARNOLD HOME

Neil Carmichael, 73, a native Texan, born in Austin County near the little town of Industry, died at his home in Ben Arnold on Sunday morning, August 14, 1938, at 3:30 o'clock. The body of the aged citizen was found at 5 a. m. by members of the household who went to his room to inquire about his condition. He had been ill for some time. Mr. Carmichael was a member of a pioneer Texas family. He grew to manhood on the prairies of south Texas and there learned for the first time all the fine concepts of American institutions and although his life had spanned an interesting and transitory period in the history of the American nation, he never forgot how to be a true pioneer. Born to the democratic faith he cherished the traditions of the party and was one of its most active supporters through all the days of his life.

When news reached Cameron of the death of this splendid pioneer universal sorrow was expressed among the people who live to appreciate his day and generation. Mr. Carmichael was a sincere man. In his heart he carried the sunshine of a fine philosophy which made him an enviable companion and a source of inspiration to many friends and neighbors who learned through the years to know and to love him for his strength of character and brilliant mind.

Mr. Carmichael had lived in Milam County since 1901 having moved to Ben Arnold shortly after he left

WPA FUNDS AVAILABLE

Information reached Cameron this morning that a street paving project is now available to the city at practically no cost to the immediate tax payers.

Under new regulations to govern all WPA projects, the city would be required to furnish only a small amount of materials because the government will pay $6 per man hour in addition to labor costs on projects of this kind.

It was believed here by many that the city could not afford to pass up this advantage to get street parving throughout the city. It would be possible under such a project to furnish labor for several months to a large number now unemployed and citizens here were considering a petition to the city council asking for action on a street paving project.

The city of Cameron has received little benefit from government grants during the past few years and while the costs of federal participation in these projects throughout the nation must eventually be paid by the people such money is available and Cameron can get the benefit by merely applying, and the city does not get these benefits the people will be required to pay their portion of the tax in any event.

Business men here are discussing the street paving project and would appreciate indication on the part of the council what may be expected in this matter.

Scientists Are New Heroes of Hollywood Dramas; Proved By "Yellow Jack" Opening Today at Cameron

Unobtrustive scientists who labor for years, often giving their lives to benefit humanity, are Hollywood's latest discovery in the field of dramatic heroes. Personally there is nothing in the average scientist to suggest a creen hero. But when his work is combined with the struggle behind it a new type of dramatic entertainment is developed by scienariest and director.

The average great scientist, explains George Seitz, who directed Robert Montgomery and Virginia Bruce in "Yellow Jack" the drama of man's fight against yellow fever, opening today at the Cameron Theatre, not only worked years to develop his discoveries but had to fight all manner of opposition to carry his point. This is especially true in the field of medical science. Hence the man's personal struggle gives us a sense of personal drama aside from dealing with the importance of his work.

The first of the science drama pictures built on this idea was a short subject, "The Romance of Radium", dealing with the discovery of the mysterious elements by the French scientist Curie whose work was carried on after his death by Mme. Curie. It was filmed as a biographical story with commentary by Pete Smith.

The first full-length feature along the same line was "The Life of Louis Pasteur," with Paul Muni, dealing with the scientific discoveries of the French scientist who developed serum inoculations. "Men in White," one of Clark Gable's outstanding pictures, glorified the work of great surgeons against a background of human drama, and several other pictures were inspired by it.

The mysterious and technical aspects of scientific drama no longer baffle the layman because by means of clever dialogue the ordinary conversations of the actors makes the scientific facts clear with a minimum of technical verbiage.

In "Yellow Jack," for instance, all the scientific explanations are made by Lewis Stone (playing Dr. Edward Reed, army medical officer during the Spanish-American war,) to his enlisted men, hence rendering such explanations exteremely simple.

The story deals with the historic expedition of Major Reed to Cuba in search of the cause of yellow fever infection, and tells of the soldiers who enlisted as "human guinea pigs" to live in quarters of fever patients, court infection and finally prove that the disease was communicated through the sting of a mosquito.

Together with Montgomery, Miss Bruce and Stone, the cast of "Yellow Jack" features Andy Devine, Henry Hull, Charles Coburn, Buddy Ebsen and Henry O'Neill, with other important roles filled by Janet Beecher, William Henry Alan Curtis and Sam Levene. The picture is based on the play by Sidney Howard in collaboration with Paul de Kruif.

INDIVIDUALITY

We should rejoice in the fact that we have the privilege of individuality, of being distinctive, different, unlike everyone else. Individuality is our opportunity, a challenge to be ourselves, to think differently, to stick to our convictions, and to express ourselves freely as to the way we think, feel, and see things. The state of being separate or distinct is an honor bestowed only upon human beings—no two people are alike exactly, though every person has some capabilities or attributes that some other person has, yet each possesses a different personality that is all his own.

It is suprising how little we exercise our individuality. We, as a whole, think, say, and do the standardized things. But what do we have brains for, if not to think, to gain a perspective, or view of things from our own efforts at analysis. Why should we not be able to express our own thoughts freely rather than agree vocally against our strongest convictions, or some times even think that we are all wrong just because we did not happen to say the expected thing. Then there is that prevalent idea that we must do things exactly like others are doing them, do the same conventional things and nothing more. Everyone has heard someone say-perhaps has even said it himself—"I would so much like to do a certain thing, but what would other people think of me if I did it."

It is all contrary to the law of progress. There must be new ideas, new ways of doing things; ruts must be avoided. One can believe in and adhere to the good and sound things but still keep himself open to the new and untried without being intemperately zealous. Who knows how much further civilization would have advanced had not individuals been afraid to assert their individualism, to put forth their idesa, and to give of the fruits of their imaginative and creative powers.

THE WORD
takes an awful beating!

NO WORD in the English language gets kicked around like "Quality." It's gotten so folks have little respect for its real meaning anymore.

The big trouble is there are all kinds of "Quality" and EXPERIENCE is the only way you can tell the difference. For instance . . . some people have an idea the quality of $2 shoes is as good as the quality of $4 shoes. After they've bought one they know it isn't.

Remember, there are no miracles . . . and nobody is giving anything away these days. You get what you pay for—and that's all! So don't jump to conclusions every time you see the word "Quality" . . . investigate first!

If you want to see the last word in Quality there's always been only one word for it—that's K. L. Soleing Leather, and see the difference yourself!

O'Daniel

he was put to. Before I can remember, at a time when work was slack in Malta, he went off to get a job on the building of a bridge over some Ohio river. There he was killed when a part of the structure, or maybe the hoisting machinery, suddenly slipped.

But if my father is not a clear picture in my mind's eye, that is not the case with my mother.

Life Centers About His Mother.

It seems that all my life history has been wound around my mother—around her character, her strong will, her hopes and ambitions for her children. She was such a hard-working woman; and, to me, always very beautiful. She was of medium height, with auburn hair—some called her redheaded—and with eyes of blue.

Her maiden name was Alice Ann Thompson, daughter of William and Mary Thompson of the Wolf Creek neighborhood in Morgan County. Her mother was a member of the Shields family, an old Quaker family—which reminds me that I sometimes speak out in meeting too much.

Her father was just as religious, being an elder in the Wolf Creek Church of Christ. Which is to say that my grandparents were Campbellites, or followers of the Rev. Alexander Campbell.

Alexander Campbell was a famous preacher who sort of broke off from the Presbyterian Church, as I understand it, and carried a lot of folks with him into a new denomination. In those days the Campbellites, as they were called, were founding new churches and preaching the Gospel all over Ohio, Kentucky and near-by States and as far away as Texas. Most people today know it as the Christian Church, or by the name of the other branch, the Disciples of Christ.

Harlingen Man Knew the Family.

Mr. Moody's letter, written on Aug. 4, 1938 throws more light on my parents and grandparents.

"Had I known you were born in my old town and were a son of Bill O'Daniel I had know from 1873," writes Mr. Moody, "I should surely have trespassed on your time when you were here in Marlingen (during the campaign) at least long enough to have been introduced.

"I knew your father before he was married, and I know your red headed mother before she was married.

"And your grandfather, William Thompson, was one of the elders of the Wolf Creek Church of Christ for many years. In fact, I first saw him when I went there as very small boy with my father.

"William Thompson was a giant morally in his community. No one ever questioned his honor or his Christian life. He lived what he taught others to live. And your grandmother, Mary Thompson, was from an old-time orthodox Quaker family."

Several of Family Were Preachers

Being God-fearing people, my mother's parents read the Bible regularly. They followed good Old Testament examples by raising a large family. My mother enjoyed the good fortune of having one sister and eleven brothers. Several of the boys became Christian preachers, among them Uncle Cyrus. They held pastorates in several parts of Ohio. When the great conflict between the North and South broke out, three of the older Thompson brothers shouldered muskets and marched off to war. They wore the blue of the regiments of their native Ohio. They believed just as loyally in their cause as did any son of Virginia or Texas in his pledge to his Confederate State

But there was kindly feeling in the midst of even that terrible contest. There is a story in our family that shows this. Since it also deals with how I got my middle name, it is doubly interesting, at least to me. One of my grandmother Thompson's boys was a young soldier in the Union ranks. He was serving in a campaign far to the South. Pure drinking water was a problem, and this uncle took sick with a serious stomach and bowel trouble. I suppose he was left for dead on a battle field when the Yankees had to beat a quick retreat, because he was found by some Confederates.

Why He was Called Lee

But he was such a genial and likable young fellow that a Southern family took pity on him and moved him into their home. That family did everything they could to save his life, nursing him night and day and doing everything possible to make him comfortable. Although they tended him as they would their own son, he died in that home. Before he breathed his last he left a message to be sent to his folks in Ohio when the war was over. In this he asked his sister, whenever she got married and had a son, to give him the name of Lee, in honor of the great Southern leader. This is the story told me by my mother. When I was born she gave me that middle name, which is also the first name of Dr. Lee Humphrey, a beloved family physician who brought many a Morgan County child into the world. I understand he is still living and serving humanity back in Ohio

An uncle of mine, Jack Thompson, lives in Hemlock, Jerry County, and a cousin, William Thompson, still lives in the Wolf Creek neighborhood in Morgan County. These and others remember that my mother first married William Earich by whom my half sister, Effie, now Mrs. O. N. Hiller of Arlington, Kan., was born.

After Willia Earich's death my mother married William O'Daniel. They lived above what is known as the old Dunnington tobacco house in Lower Malta. There my own sister, Mrs. Ethel Pickering of Hutchinson, Kan., was born, and there to the best of my Knowledge, I was born also.

"The passport was obtained in Paris [illegible] the only copy of the historical original ever made."

Some question over the year I was born has arisen in our family. I went all through the campaign and have thought for years that I was born in 1892. Since the primary election, a reporter for the McConnelsville, Ohio, Herald talked with a number of old residents and relatives of mine in and around Malta, and they all said they thought I was born in that year. But when I started getting up this autobiography, I checked through all records and papers for years. From my school enrollment from my wedding license, and other proof, find I was actually born two years earlier. I am now, therefore 48 years old, not 46, as I thought formerly.

Parents Were Very Poor

My parents were very poor in Malta, even before my father died. Mother had long known hard work, and she pitched in to do all she could to keep her little family together. There was a kindhearted friend in Malta, Wilbert McHenry. Just before I was born, at a time when the family purse was flatter than usual and the family was in need of food, Wilbert McHenry sent a bill of groceries to our home. Mother was always grateful for that act of Christian kindness. To show her thankfulness, she gave me his first name, along with that of Lee. Later, folks in Kansas used to call me Wilbur, but it is really Wilbert.

After William O'Daniel was killed, mother had a harder struggle than ever. But she was a determined woman who was going to take care of her children. She took in sewing, but it did not pay enough to keep soul and body together. She was not strong physically as a young woman, but she was not too proud to turn her hands to any honest toil. So, for a time, she took in washings. She worked over an old-fashioned backbreaking washboard. If there were washing machies in those days they were unknown in our house. Even the poorest farm or city home today has conveniences that were possible only among the richest people forty and fifty years ago—electric lights, running water and all kinds of other laborsaving devices.

Incidents of Early Boyhood

Since I left Ohio when I was less than 5 years old, not much that happened to me there steiks in my memory. I do remember some incidents. I remember standing on the long bridge connecting Malta and McConnelsville watching a free show down on a river boat below when my hat blew off and the folks on the boat took their fishing poles and fished it out of the river. I remember my sister Ethel falling in the Muskingum River which flowed past our home, and how she clung to a log several hours, clinging to the slick, moss-covered log only because she was afraid the fish would bite her toes, and not because she was afraid of drowning.

I remember also one object lesson which has clung to me all my life. Mother always taught me that Sunday was the Lord's day and that we should not do anything on Sunday. Santa Claus came down our chimney Christmas Eve, which happened to be Saturday night, and he brought me a bright red sled. Snow was on the ground, there was a big hill in our back yard and the bottom of the hill had a picket fence across it. I wanted to try the new sled out the next morning, but it was Sunday and mother told me not to. But I sneaked out and down the hill I sped—not thinking about the picket fence at the foot of the hill and not knowing anything of four-wheel breaks at that time. There was nothing to stop me but the picket fence coming in contact with my nose, and my nose got the worst of the bargain, but it caused me to appreciate the logic of mother's teaching about keeping the Sabbath Day holy. And that little incident of childhood has stuck to me all these years.

Some time after my mother was widowed for the second time, an old childhood friend and schoolmate of hers in Malta, Charles H. Baker, lost his wife in Kansas. He had gone west some years before and settled in Reno County, about twenty-two miles southwest of Hutchinson and about a mile and a quarter out of the small town of Arlington. He had three young daughters of his own, all older than me and my sister. When he heard about mother losing her husband, he wrote back to Ohio, trying to get her to come Kansas and marry him. Mother finally agreed, and they were married in Hutchinson. He always said he had loved her since they were kids together in school. He saw her married three times—twice back in Ohio and then to himself in Kansas.

Baker Only Father He Knew.

Charles H. Baker was the only father I ever knew. And I don't see how a real father could ever be better to a son than he was to me. Dad Baker was a tenant farmer and rancher. All of the free land in Kansas was gone by the time he went there. He was easy going, honest as the day is long and never touched a drop of liquor. But he was not a careful manager of his own business affairs, and he would place confidence in anybody—not always to his best interest.

Going to Kansas was a great adventure for my mother, my sister and me. Although I was too young to remember much about it, one event has always stuck with me. That was crossing the Mississippi at St. Louis. It was the biggest, widest river I ever saw, even bigger than the Muskingum. From the slowly moving train window, high above the long bridge over it, I thought we never would get across. Surely it was the largest body of water in the world. But we made it. And with that crossing we entered, like hundreds of thousands of Americans before us, from Texas to Canada, a new land of hope and dreams of a brighter future.

Think It Over!

Why do men pay ransom to kidnappers? Because they value their life, or the life of their kidnapped relative, more than money, when the kidnappers threaten death to the one kidnapped unless the money demanded is paid them.

In Psalm 49, v. 7, it is written, that no one can ransom his brother or redeem him from God's sentence of death; what ransom could we give God for our life to save ourselves from eternal death? First

In Timothy, ch. 2, v. 5 and 6, we read that "there is one God and one Mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus, WHO GAVE HIMSELF A RANSOM FOR ALL, to be testified in due time."

Christ, our Savior, gave Himself a ransom for us all unto God, to redeem us from sin and eternal damnation, in order that we should live forever through and with Him. This testimony is to be proclaimed to all in due time—the right time for each one is NOW, before it is too late to believe in Christ; for AFTER death, it will be too late to accept Him who is our only Savior.

BELIEVE IN CHIRST, THE LORD, THAT YE MAY BE SAVED?

IN DEFENSE OF W. LEE O'DANIEL

To the Editor:

"Well, if I can't have my way, I just wont play." Friends this is not a new expression to you or me. It is as old as play among children is old.

The above expression is nothing more or less than the exact sentiment of more than five hundred thousand people, who felt so proud of their vote on July 23. They openly say. If you can't do as I want you to do—I just wont play the game any longer. People, let's all grow up for just a little while any way. That "I wont play" expression doesn't belong to you who voted for W. Lee O'Daniel. It belongs to your children who play in the back yard. W. Lee O'Daniel is a man of initiative Why not treat him as such? Just because he expressed himself and gave his opinion, he did not expect you to change your opinion, and vote differently on July 27. Nay, he wants you to have more initiative than that. I shall vote for one of the six men that W. Lee O'Daniel suggested. As for the other five—well—I vote my own ticket. You do the same.

Saturday I read in one of the daily newspapers wherein one writer called our Governor elect, a regular Judas Iscariot; stating that he had sold out already. Due to the fact that W. Lee O'Daniel and his candidacy for governor have been so closely associated with the Bible, may I, in a most humble manner prove to you that W. Lee O'Daniel is rather to be compared to another Disciple of Jesus, than Judas Iscariot, By comparing him to this Disciple I can prove that he may make many mistakes; and yet hold within his hand the key to a very successful government for "Beautiful Texas."

It has been said by someone, that every man has his price. One will sell for money; others for flattery; and others for fear. To my way of thinking, more people sell out through fear than any other way. You hear people say, "I would belong to certain church or club, I know it is right but I am afraid it would hurt me in my social standing." In other words, they fear the finger of accusation. They would rather stand condemned than have it pointed at them. I cannot think of W. Lee O'Daniel in comparison with Judas Iscariot. But rather in comparison with the one, Simon Peter, who in a most fearful manner, denied that he had ever known Jesus. In other words, He Sold Out. Christ was trying to show his disciples, that he would go into Jerusalem, suffer many things, and finally be killed. Peter took him aside, rebuked him, saying, this shall not happen unto thee. But Jesus said unto Peter, get thee behind me Satan, you are an offense unto me." On another occasion Jesus said, "Ye shall all pe offended of me this night." This of course being the night that Judas Iscariot betrayed or sold Jesus to the multitudes, But Peter again boldly said, "Though all men shall be offended because of thee, yet never will I." Jesus rebuked him saying, Peter, before the cock crows this night, thou shalt deny me three times. Peter answered and said, "Though I die with you, I will not deny you." The multitudes came and took Jesus away. We see Peter following him afar off. They enter the High Priest's Palace, Peter following at a safe distance, dreading an eye of recognition. Well, you know the sad ending, Jesus' punishment was terrible. Great fear seized Peter, three times the finger of accusation pointed to Peter. "Aren't you one of this man's followers? Did we not see you witn him, etc?" The third time he denied, ever having known Jesus, and cursed. At that moment the cock crew. Peter looked toward Jesus, caught his eye. He realized what he had done—Sold out—So cheap. Fear, fear, nothing but pure fear. And believe it or not, this same Peter, became the Greatest Disciple of them all. Unto him the keys of the Kingdom of Heaven were given.

Did Jesus say, "We are through, the game is ended, Peter?" No, a thousand times, No. He forgave and placed a greater trust than ever in him. Why did he do it? Because he could see Peter, internally as well as externally. He knew that spiritually he was weak.

On July 23, the keys to or for the government of Texas for the next two years were placed in the hands of W. Lee O'Daniel. Not by one; but by five hundred thousand people. Are we going to quit before the game begins—or are we going to be "Big" enough to forgive, forget and play the game to the end?

To my notion, since I have weighed and considered the matter seriously, W. Lee O'Daniel made his first application of the "Golden Rule" last Thursday. All people who have served their country long and faithfully are not to be classed as Professional Politicians. Therefore why leave those poor fellows gagged, and their hands tied behind them?

Come now, before we criticize our Governor-Elect too severely, let us remember that he is just "man." Subject to mistakes of course. No doubt we can all look back in our lives and account for a success made, through a mistake. Listen, the mistake itself was not the success, but we profited so by that mistake that it made possible our success.

I'm for W. Lee O'Daniel. Are you?

Mrs. Nancy Lea Vaughan.

Carmichael

his old home at Industry. He married Miss Annie Schmidt in Austin County. While they lived in Austin County two sons were born to them, Neil, Jr., and William, Jr., both of whom died in infancy a dnaeretao whom died in infancy and are buried in the soil of their early struggles i old Austin County.

Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael moved to the town of Ben Arnold where he engaged in the ginning business for 8 years. After that he was interested in a light plant which supplied current to the small community and to the business houses of Ben Arnold. He sold his light business and retired, never again entering into active business but was always alert and took an active part in the civic life of his community and in politics both in county and in state.

Mr. Carmichael had been ill for two months and while his death was a shock to many friends, his condition was known to be more or less critical for some time which accounted for the fact that members of the family were anxious regarding his condition when they went to his room at 5 a. m. Sunday and found that he had peacefully died while he slept.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock from the family residence with burial in Ben Arnold Cemetery. Pall bearers were C. F. Nolte, O. C. Nolte, E. O. Strickler, W. E. Kosel, Mr. Knupple, and Frank Sproull.

Deceased is survived by his widow, Mrs. N. Carmichael, 2 sons, Harvey D. Carmichael and Jennings Bryan Carmichael, both of whom are Cameron business men, and Mrs. Katherine McDonald, a daughter of Mullin, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Duck of Roswell, New Mexico, are in Cameron for a visit with R. P. Fisher of the Jeter Lumber Company. Mrs. Duck is a sister of Mr. Fisher. They complained of the heat in this section, having come to Texas from a country of high altitudes in the far west. They expect to return to their home within a short time.

CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE
64th District
Milam County
Run-off Primary, Saturday, August 27th, 1938

TO THE PEOPLE OF MILAM COUNTY:

As a candidate for representative to the Texas Legislature from the 64th district, Milam County, I pledge my support to the following:

1. Full payment of $30.00 per month to every person in Milam County who has reached the age of 65 years.

2. I heartily indorse the position taken by Honorable W. Lee O'Daniel, our Democratic nominee for Governor of Texas, and pledge him my support and co-operation in the coming session of the Legislature.

3. I pledge my support to the school teachers of Texas and will vote for any legislation that will insure to them an adequate retirement fund. I also favor as high apportionment possible for the school children of Texas and the support of our public schools. I will vote for and support any legislation that will give full payment to bus drivers who transport our children to the schools of our county.

4. I pledge the school teachers of Texas and all those who work for the state that I will vote for and support any measure that will insure to them full payment of their vouchers without discounts at the bank.

5. I am wholeheartedly in sympathy with Governor O'Daniel in his plan to give Texas a business administration and to make this state a great industrial empire to consume the products of the farm and to bring employment to thousands who now have no jobs.

6. I favor exempting all homesteads in Texas up to $3,000.00 in value from taxation for state purposes as now provided. A man's home should be his forever against such claims and I shall oppose any attempt to change this law.

7. Each year Milam County suffers heavy losses from floods and overflows. The people have had no relief from these losses. Some years ago the legislature began passing laws exempting certain counties from the payment of state ad valorum taxes. I think Milam County should be included with the 48 counties that have already been exempted and therefore will urge the legislature to give relief to Milam County.

8. I am a farmer. I live on a farm. I have lived in Milam County all my life. I am twenty-eight years of age and have had a life long experience as a farmer and a number of years experience as a business man and I feel that I know the needs of all the people of Milam County. If you will elect me to the Legislature, I will make you a good representative because I have had the experience and will serve all the people all the time.

STARTLING FIGURES

● No one who owns an automobile is unaware of his dependence on the petroleum industry. But the industry's importance to Texans does not stop with automobiles; a study of the records reveals some startling figures: Texas has approximately 53% of the proven oil reserves in the United States, and 40% of the country's total production. Texas reserves at the end of 1937 were estimated to be 8,248,000,000 barrels. About a fourth of the total mineral wealth of the country is in oil; this gives Texas approximately an eighth of the national mineral wealth in oil alone! The value of petroleum products refined in Texas was $438,000,000 according to latest figures. First state in production, first in reserves, Texas ranks only seventh in consumption, so that oil becomes a source of new dollars pouring into the pockets of nearly every average Texan. The value of this to the state's development is indicated by the fact that oil royalties paid to farmers a little exceeds the total of taxes and interest on mortgages paid by all Texas farmers. In addition, the oil industry has distributed huge sums among Texans in the shape of other royalties, wages, the purchase of supplies.

The Humble Company sets a high value upon its privilege of participating in the discovery and orderly development of this great Texas natural resource.

Gay, Surpriseful Shirley Temple Is Surrounded By A Stellar Cast In New Hit, "Little Miss Broadway" Here August 25 and 26

"Little Miss Broadway," Shirley Temple's latest starring picture has been completed and is scheduled for its opening August 25, at the Cameron Theatre.

Already, those who have seen the production say that it demonstrates beyond a shadow of a doubt why this young lady is America's Number One Star.

It is an acknowledged fact that to millions throughout the world, each new Shirley Temple picture is an event of major magnitude. Most recently India capitulated to the charm of this young thespian when an age-old rule against feminine entertainers dropped its barriers—and La Temple is now the box office champion of the world.

Better Than Ever

Of "Little Miss Broadway," the previewers say that Shirley dances and sings with greater ease and talent than she has in any previous film, and her rare dramatic ability continues to amaze her audiences.

Part of the secret of her phenomenal success is credited to the fact that Darryl F. Zanuck, production chief at 20th Century-Fox, consistently has commandered every facility in his control to assure the best in story. production material and cast. And "Little Miss Broadway" has been reported as a double order of everything.

The original screen play was prepared by Harry Tugend and Jack Yellen.

Grand Trouper Group

The cast which supports Shirley is headed by George Murhphy, Hollywood's ace acting-hoofer; Jimmy Durante, a droll comic who needs no introduction; Phyllis Brooks, the rapidly rising young blonde beauty who appeared with Shirley in "Rebecca" and Edna Mae Oliver, who is known to myriads of fans as the austere old maid.

The cast also includes two dozen big names, notable among them Geo. Barbier, Edward Ellis, Jane Darwell, Donald Meek Patrica Wilder and Claude Gilligwater, Sr.

Sparkling Tunes

Six sparkling tunes by Walter Bullock and Harold Spina—ranging from ballads to sizzling swing lend themselves to Shirley's singing as well as the intricate steps which she and Murphy execute together.

Production has called for ultra-modern sets as well as dowdy old theatrical hotel-room scenes.

And as evidence of an assured temple success the direction of the young star has been in the hands of Irving Cummings who makes "Little Miss Broadway" his third directorial venture with Shirley.

"One peek into the egg basket is enough for us to know that our poultry production is not up to par. We attribute the cause to the extreme heat and say there is nothing we can do about it." Miss Dorothy Porter, County Home Demonsrtation Agent, says, "Something Can Be Done about the Temperature" and proved it by demonstrating a minature poultry house that was constructed to give the maximum ventilation, mortability from heat among adult stock can be greatly reduced. This house, by the use of your old poultry house, a few nails, small amount of net wire and leather straps, can be duplicated at a minimum cost.

If poultry production is to be a real source of income special attention should be given the care of eggs. They should be gathered at least twice a day and should be placed in the refrigerator, cooler or cellar. Eggs kept at room temperature should be marketed at least twice a week.

There were 9 members present and 2 visitors, Mrs. William Burnett and Miss Edna Mae Patzke.

Herbert Marshall Tops Preview Bill Saturday at Cameron

A new screen triumvirate of Herbert Marshall, Virginia Bruce and Mary Astor makes its first appearance in "Woman Against Woman," which comes to the Cameron Theatre for the Preview Saturday. Robert Sinclair directed and Edward Chodorov produced from his own screen play.

Marshall has the role of the husband in this picturization of Margaret Culkin Banning's national magazine story, "Enemy Territory," following his outstanding success in "Mad About Music." The story tells of a divorced man who takes his second wife to his home town where his first wife and child live. The second wife finds the town leagued against her and the first wife bent on making trouble, but her love for her husband gives her the strength to see the situation through.

Miss Bruce plays the second wife, stepping directly from her role in "Yellow Jack." Miss Astor is the first wife.

The film was the first assignment on the M-G-M lot for Sinclair, former New York stage director associated with George S. Kaufman, Sam Harris and Max Gordon.

Supporting the triumvirate of stars are Janet Beecher, Marjorie Rambeau, Juanita Quigley, Zeffie Tilbury, Sarah Padden, Betty Ross Clarke, Dorothy Christy, Morgan Wallace and Joseph Creehan.

Taking advantage of a lull in the field work, Mrs. Lester Hart, Kitchen Improvement Demonstrator of the Gardner Home Demonstration Club, is getting her cistern installed. When the fall rains come the cistern will be ready. Other kitchen improvements was completed in April.

Clearing her garden plot of weeds, Mrs. Babe Yount of the Gardner Home Demonstration club, will be ready for the garden. Weeds plowed under in the fall do not have time to disintigrate and tend to keep the soil so open that it dries out too quickly.

Mrs. Yount always prepares her garden land early, and she seldom has a failure in garden vegetables.

A pantry large enough to hold 570 containers has been built this year for Mrs. D. B. Worcester by her son in law Mr. Hugh Vaughn.

Mrs. Vaughn was home feed supply demonstrator in the Sand Grove community in 1937, getting her own pantry built late in that year. She found ~~the~~ pantry a most useful built-in, and the pantry built for Mrs. Worcester is a continuation of her interest in the home food supply work.

As a result of Home Demonstration Club activities, three communities, Bryant Station, Corinth and Sandy Ridge now have electricity.

In January 1937, the Bryant Station Home Demonstration Club whose president was Mrs. H. L. Colbert, began the work of getting electric service for their community.

A community wide meeting, sponsored by the club, was called and R. E. A. officials were invited down to explain to the group the method of getting this serivice. After the first meeting, the Home Demonstration Club no longer took the lead, but let it become a community project. Members of the club continued to give their time individually to details of the work, until the project became a reality.

Miss Vera Avrett,
Gardner Home Dem. Club,
Tanglewood, Texas:

"To increase poultry profits keep the hens cool" Miss Dorothy Porter told members of the Gardner Home Demonstration club when they met at Pleasant Hill, Wednesday August 10.

"There are five points to emphasize if greater profits are to be realized. They are:

1. Have adequate space for hens in the chicken house. A 6x10 foot house will comfortably house 20 hens.
2. Have the house well ventilated all the way around—both top and bottom.
3. Feed mash instead of all grain in warm weather, and provide green feed.
4. Gather up eggs 3 or 4 times a day instead of at night only.
5. Cool eggs promptly. It is best to place them in a refrigerator. If there is no refrigerator in the home an old fashioned milk cooler will suffice.

Infertile eggs handled in this way sell for at least 2c more per dozen.

In a year's time this amounts to a worthwhile profit."

In a round table discussion it was decided that there would be at least 7 entries in Ball Jar Exhibit August 24. Plans were made for an ice cream supper and community party to be given August 20.

There were 10 members present at the meeting, and 2 visitors, Mrs. Brian Newberry and Mrs. Harry Timmerman. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Emil Miller on August 23. The subject will be "Homemade Christmas Gifts" and each member is asked to bring an attractive homemade gift for demonstration.

FARM CLUB NEWS

Mrs. Adolph Hanel,
Ad Hall Home Dem. Club,
Cameron, Texas, Rt. 1:

Why do hens like to lay their eggs where we can't find them? There must be a reason. In the hot weather and even in other times of the year this happens. We find the answer to these things in the program. "Something Can Be Done About the Temperature," which Miss Dorothy Porter, County Home Demonstration Agent gave to the Ad Hall club which met at the home of Mrs. Adolph Hanel Friday, August 12.

Old poultry buildings can be very comfortable and cool homes for hens. They will then stay in the house to lay their eggs at home. The number of square feet of floor space per bird is most important. Crowded hens sooner or later lead to a diseased flock. From two and one half to three square feet of space per bird is average for Texas farm conditions. Never figure on less than two and one half square feet of floor space per bird. This house should be so ventilated as to supply enough fresh air to meet the body needs of the bird and to carry away the stale and unhealthful fumes arising from the droppings. Ventilation must be provided without creating drafts which will chill the roosting birds and lead to colds and roup. Miss Porter also showed 2 egg-gathering baskets that we can make from an old bucket and poultry wire to gather eggs three times daily. Different types of coolers to keep the eggs in a cool place before they go to market were described. Bad eggs come only from careless handling. It pays to take care of and to have fresh eggs on the market.

There were 4 members present, and 6 non-club members present. The vistor were Mrs. Frank Tomek, Mrs. James Richardson, Mrs. Frank Marek, Mrs. August Kunz, Miss Bertha Marek and Miss Theresa Anderle.

Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Walter Powell, August 26, at 2:30 p. m. with "Home Made Christmas Gifts" for the subject. Visitors are welcome.

Thomas White is Among High Rank Students at Rice

Thomas Jefferson White, sophomore chemical engineering student at Rice Institute, was one among the twenty-two scholars with special mention for his work in 1937-38.

He was eligible for a scholarship but did not apply. The Institute each year issues a list of names of the highest ranking students in the Institute. White's name was listed among the scholars in his freshman year, 1936-37, thus completing two years of outstanding averages in his grades.

He will return to Rice in September as a junior and hopes to win a junior engineering scholarship for his class work and grades during the 1938-39 term. He was the ranking student in Cameron schools throughout the years he attended. He is the son of J. B. White, editor and publisher of the Cameron Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Mondrik and little daughter, Kay Nell and Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Alexander left Saturday for a vacation trip to Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burns have gone to the coast and will spend sometime in Corpus Christi, inksville, Port Aransas and other coastal cities.

John C. Martin Among High Rank Students at Rice

John C. Martin, junior mechanical engineering student in Rice Institute, is one among twenty-five ranking scholars for the year 1937-38.

His name appears on the list issued by the institute based on the records of students for the past term. He was awarded the Hohenthal Scholarship for his work, this being the second scholarship awarded to him, the first being in his freshman year at Rice.

Martin will return to Rice this fall as a senior and will get his degree in June 1939. He was one of the ranking students of Cameron schools and his record at Rice is most impressive. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Martin of Cameron.

Mrs. Ola Dobbins of Austin visited Mrs. Harvey Dobbins and other relatives here this week.

Parnell

and Lyle McDermott, won the state championship and will now go to Kansas City in October to represent Texas in competition with teams from other states of the nation. He paid special tribute to these boys who have worked hard and have mastered their courses of study in advanced agriculture and poultry judging.

Mr. Parnell will leave Cameron this week end for Texas A & M where he will teach during the next nine months. As Texas' top ranking teacher of vocational agriculture, it is expected that his work will be so attractive as a member of the A & M faculty that he will remain permanently as a teacher in this, the largest agricultural college in the world.

At the opening of the program on Wednesday W. D. Paden manager of Chamber of Commerce, a special guest for the day, made a report on the meeting held in Gatesville on Tuesday regarding highway No. 36. Mr. Paden said that Harry Hinds member of the state highway commission pledged his efforts to complete all construction on highway 36 by the end of his term.

Highway 36, Mr. Paden said, when completed will be a first rate route of travel from Louisiana on the south east to the Texas line on the far west. Mr. Paden said the road will be 376 miles long and one of the most important roadways in America. Last year tourist's trade in Texas brought to the state $446,000,000, second only in value to the Texas cotton crop.

"Turn About Is Fair Play"

To the Editor:

For the past 60 years the American Czech voters of Milam County unreservedly supported their American neighbors for the Legislature and did vote for the best man running. Now, in the spirit of fairness and justice, is it not time for the entire American voters to return the favor?

We objected to none of our good neighbors on account of race, creed or nationality, and is it not right and just for you American voters to do likewise?

The American voter loves fair play and rebukes all unfair practices, so don't you think that Joe Slavik is as good a man as his honorable opponent, and if he is is it not time for turn about?

Forget race, creed and nationality and vote for the best man and that man is none other than JOE SLAVIK.

(Paid for by Czech friends of Joe Slavik.)

CARDUI is a special medicine for the relief of some of the suffering which results from a woman's weakened condition. It has been found to make monthly periods less disagreeable, and, when its use has been kept up awhile, has helped many poorly nourished women to get more strength from their food. This medicine (pronounced "Card-u-i") has been used and recommended by women for many, many years. Find out whether it will help you by giving it a fair trial. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.
